This product is aimed at doctors and therapists who want to involve more in addition to a biochemically and anatomically based medicine and the functional level, a holistic approach in diagnosis and therapy. For over 100 years, Western medicine in teaching and training the unity of body and soul has ignored. The result is a soulless body medicine emerged on the one side and a disembodied soul medicine (psychology) on the other side. The neurobiological research has shown that every thought triggers an emotion that draws a reaction in the autonomic nervous system by itself. Emotions control the autonomic nervous system and so mediate the effect of spiritual consciousness on the human body. This effect can be measured with SUEmpathy and objectifies them.

Because all these disorders always involve the whole person, new concepts in diagnosis and therapy are needed.
